Winter Chincoteague Trip

The Winter Chincoteague Weekend club trip is scheduled for February 2-4 (Friday to Sunday) co-led by Marc Ribaud and myself. February is an excellent time to visit Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge (NWR) and the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel (CBBT) Islands. The Refuge is loaded with wintering waterfowl while the CBBT is famous for wintering sea ducks. On last year's trip, we tallied 109 species including 21 species of waterfowl. Despite the bitterly cold weather, our highlight sightings at Chincoteague were a male Eurasian Wigeon in Swan Cove and a spectacular flyover of Snow Geese while we were at the beach. At the CBBT Islands, we found Long-tailed Ducks, Great

NVBC GENERAL MEETING—WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 8 PM

Wood Thrush Research and Conservation

Speaker: Dana McCoskey

Dana McCoskey assisted with the research of Wood Thrushes on their wintering grounds in Costa Rica and then conducted her graduate research with the thrushes on their Indiana breeding grounds as part of a larger Smithsonian Institution project. At George Mason University, she used DNA sequencing and barcoding to develop a novel method to study migratory bird diets and identify prey species that the thrushes in Indiana forage on in different types of forests. Dana's presentation will focus on Wood Thrush research and conservation.

Dana McCoskey is a fish and wildlife ecologist who spent over ten years in the field conducting research on migratory animals, monitoring threatened and endangered species, and studying the effects of land use practices such as forestry, fire, and renewable energy development on animal populations. This work took her into the forests, streams, refuges, and back country of Oregon, Washington, California, Idaho, Nevada, Indiana, Massachusetts, Hawaii and Costa Rica. She is a board member of the DC Audubon Society focused on bird conservation and education. She currently works for Allegheny Science and Technology supporting environmental research initiatives onsite in the US Department of Energy's Water Power Technologies Office.

Early bird refreshments start at 7:30 PM. Any contributions of food or beverage will be most gratefully received. There will be a drawing for door prizes. Northern Virginia Bird Club pins will be available for members who would like to buy them ($5 each).

MEETING PLACE: St. Andrews Episcopal Church, 4000 Lorcom Lane, Arlington, 22207. Directions are on page 4.

Presidential Peentings

If you measure your life based on your experiences, then birding should be a perfect match for you. Every life bird is a novelty and every new birding location is an adventure. For beginning birders, these new encounters can sometimes come at a furious pace. I remember when I first started birding, I would often go to Huntley Meadows Park. Usually, it was not a matter of if I would find a lifer there, but how many I would find. I also enjoyed traveling all around the region exploring local birding hotspots that were all new to me. The sense of wonder and discovery was exhilarating. As a birding community, we should all be going the extra mile to encourage beginning birders. They are the future of birding and it's up to us to make sure that they feel included. I have noticed that some new birders these days are strongly focused on the photography aspect of birding. A few do not even carry binoculars and use just their camera to bird. They may miss a few birds that others see, but they can often capture some amazing bird images. I would still recommend that everyone carry binoculars while birding, but to each his own. I want as many people as possible to experience the wonders of the natural world in whatever way is best for them. Also consider the fact that every birder, no matter how experienced, started out as a beginning birder. We need to do our best to inspire new birders so that they keep it up and potentially become valuable advocates for our birds and for the conservation of our environment.

Winter Chincoteague Trip from p.1

Cormorants, Northern Gannets, Purple Sandpipers, Lesser Black-backed Gulls and best of all, Razorbills and Common Eiders.

Plans for the weekend include birding the Chincoteague area Friday afternoon starting at 3:15 pm (optional) and Saturday starting at 7:30 am. Activities on Friday and Saturday include birding along Beach Road, Swan Cove and Tom's Cove and around the Wildlife Loop. Time and tides permitting, we will also visit the Queen Sound Flats, the Chincoteague City mudflats and Mariner's Point.

On Sunday, we will bird Kiptopeke State Park and, time permitting, the Eastern Shore National Wildlife Refuge before our trip to the CBBT Islands. We will be limited to a one hour visit to island #4 due to the construction of a new tunnel between islands #1 and #2 and the storage of construction equipment on island #3. The CBBT trip requires security forms in advance and an extra fee for the security escort. The trip concludes at noon on Sunday.

NVBC membership is required for this trip. Registration will open on November 15, 2017. To sign up for this trip, please email Elton Morel at eltonmorel@verizon.net. The trip is limited to 24 people and usually fills up quickly. Please do not make hotel reservations until your trip registration has been confirmed. When signing up, please indicate whether you are interested in Sunday morning's CBBT Island trip and a Saturday evening group dinner. If the trip is full, your name can be put on a waiting list.

We have obtained a special rate of $76 per night on twenty rooms for Friday and Saturday nights at the Best Western Chincoteague Island Hotel on Maddox Boulevard. A two-night stay is usually required. Hotel reservations must be made by January 19 to get this special group rate. Participants should make your own reservations by calling 800-553-6117 and be sure to say you are with the Northern Virginia Bird Club. Check-in time is 3 pm on Friday, February 2, with 24-hour notice required for cancellation. Chincoteague NWR is a US fee area.

NVBC Announcement: There will not be a club-sponsored Winter Highland County trip.

Youth Birding Scholarship Opportunity

Please spread the word and help support a young birder learn more about the wonders of birding and about this great opportunity.

The Northern Virginia Bird Club is sponsoring the Val Kitchens Memorial Young Birder Scholarship for 2018. We are seeking applicants from 13 to 18 years of age to receive a financial grant of up to $500 to attend a Virginia Society of Ornithology (VSO) activity, a birding camp, a birding course or educational offering, or a similar activity. Applicants are asked to submit a completed application form with a short essay describing the goals in participating in the planned activity. Candidates will be asked to provide a reference from a member of NVBC, VSO, or from a birder familiar to the club.

The deadline is February 1, 2018. Applications can be submitted as an attachment via email to the Club at lgmeade@gmail.com, or mailed to Northern Virginia Bird Club, Attn: Scholarship, P.O. Box 5812, Arlington, VA 22205-0812.

Winter Waterfowl Survey

On Saturday, February 3 and Sunday, February 4, 2018, birders of all skill levels will join up to count waterfowl in Fairfax, Arlington, and Prince William counties, including the Potomac and Occoquan watersheds. Novice birders will be paired with expert bird enthusiasts. Larry Cartwright continues as the volunteer compiler for this year's count. For more information and to join the team, email info@audubonva.org or call 703-438-6008.

Treasurer's Report for Fiscal Year 2017

The Club has 366 family and individual memberships, with 500 total members

Income received

Dues for 2017	4,456
Bird Watcher's Digest & pins	20
Donations	181

Total Income $4,657

Expenses

Organizational costs (includes fees for PO box, Paypal, website hosting, state registration, VSO dues, and supplies)	$707
Meeting expenses (includes hall rental, speaker honorariums, prizes, refreshments)	1,021
Printing and postage (includes bulk mail permit)	2,515
Scholarships	500

Total expenses $4,743

Net for 2017 -$86

The Club anticipated and achieved close to a breakeven budget. Our largest expense area is the printing and mailing of our Siskin newsletter. Members continue to value receiving a mailed copy as well as having the information on our website. Once again the Club awarded a Val Kitchens Memorial scholarship to a youth birder. Net assets at the end of the year were $7,821.

Report from Hog Island

This summer I attended Hog Island's Coastal Maine Bird Studies for Teens in midcoast Maine.

Hog Island is a great opportunity for birders of all ages to see the unique wildlife of Maine. Hog Island is a small, 330-acre island in Muscongus Bay with a rocky coast and spruce-fir forests. The scenery is beautiful and the buildings on Hog Island are as well: most of them were built in the nineteenth century.

Although Hog Island itself is extremely unique, the people are what really make it amazing. During the week I was able to meet fellow young birders from all over the country that shared my passion for birds.

Every evening at camp we ate dinner in the Bridge (the lobster is absolutely delicious) and then regrouped at the Fish House, where we listened to the evening presentation, which varied from identifying birds by song to bird photography.

We went birding around the island every day, seeing lots of the breeding warblers, kinglets and Winter Wrens, as well as Black Guillemots, Common Eiders, scoters, and Common Loons on the bay. We also went owling the first night and heard a Northern Saw-whet Owl.

Aside from birding on Hog Island, we stopped at some nearby locations on the mainland, seeing lots of interesting species, including Ruffed Grouse, Bobolink, Yellow-bellied Flycatcher, and a great diversity of dragonflies and damselflies. Probably the most interesting location we visited was Hidden Valley Nature Center, where we explored a kettle-hole bog covered in carnivorous plants such as pitcher plants and bladderwort. On our last day of camp we sailed to Burnt Island, where we did some bird banding. Many species were banded, including Red-breasted Nuthatch, Yellow-rumped Warbler, Golden-crowned Kinglet, and White-throated Sparrow. There, we saw a large flock of Red Crossbills.

The most special day at camp was visiting Eastern Egg Rock, the seven-acre island known for its Atlantic Puffins, which Steve Kress reintroduced after they were extirpated from the bay due to overhunting. We landed on the island and were taken to the blinds, where I was able to watch the puffins at close range for about an hour and a half, which I consider the most exhilarating and memorable birding experience of my life.

The puffins weren't the only amazing bird we saw. The Black Guillemots, Common Eiders, and Razorbills were fun to watch, as well as Arctic and Roseate Terns, both of which are rare breeders and birds I had never seen before.

Overall, Hog Island is a truly magical place with some amazing people that share your passion, and unique birds that you don't get to see every day. It is a life-changing experience that I highly recommend.

Observing Mississippi Kites in Northern Virginia

During the spring and summer of 2017, I had the opportunity to closely monitor two local nestings of Mississippi Kites (Ictinia mississippiensis), one near the Green Spring Gardens Park in Fairfax County and a second one near Monticello Park in Alexandria. There were at least five pairs of Mississippi Kites reported nesting in Northern Virginia in 2017.

The Green Spring pair returned to nest in the same tree in which they had nested in 2016. They successfully hatched and fledged two chicks. I began monitoring and photographing in mid-July after the chicks were hatched, but still in the nest.

In Alexandria, in May, before the kites actually established their nest, there were as many as six Mississippi kites (two adults, two second year, sub-adults, and two of undetermined age) flying and soaring over the area. It was a great show to watch. I was also able to observe these kites mate several times as well as construct their new nest. This pair hatched two and fledged one chick. The other chick was found dead at the base of the nest tree.

As interesting as the nest and young kites were, I found watching the adult birds fly and hunt to be especially satisfying. This is a truly beautiful and elegant bird, which can just sit on the wind, navigate with its tail, and then execute almost instantaneous and stunning dives after insect prey. I also thought that the interaction between the adults and the juveniles, and between the two fledged juveniles at the Green Spring nesting to be both interesting and educational.

The adults at the Alexandria nesting frequently left the juvenile alone, and unfed, for a long periods of time, perhaps an hour or more. On one occasion, I saw a crow land very near the Alexandria nest, which caused the juvenile to call incessantly, but no adult appeared to protect it. Somehow the juvenile persevered and fledged.

Meanwhile, at Green Spring, both of the adults fed the chicks at least every five or ten minutes and sometimes more often. The adults came in again and again with the cicadas for their offspring. And, in late August, when a Red-shouldered Hawk got too near the snag on which the juveniles were perched, they both begin calling, took off in flight, and within 15 to 20 seconds an adult kite came swooping out of the sky to chase the hawk away.

On another occasion, as the Green Spring adults continued to bring in cicadas, they always seemed to feed the same juvenile, although the other juvenile was calling and begging for his share. I began to wonder if the unfed juvenile would be OK, when suddenly it peeled off the snag, did a swooping dive through the yard (as I had seen the adults do to catch insect prey) and landed in a nearby tree; then it took off and started soaring over the whole area, until it saw the adult coming back, when it made a beeline for the snag hoping to get the next cicada. What fun to watch !!

The kites from all of the nestings left on their migration to South America shortly before Labor Day. I suppose we shall never know which of them did or didn't make it successfully.

Presumably, next spring the same or different pairs of adults will return to nest in Northern Virginia again. The easiest and best time to see them is when they first arrive and are still looking for a nesting location. They often fly and soar extensively at that time, usually in very late April or early May.

I have posted 46 of my photographs from the Alexandria and Green Spring nestings on my nature blog at Skybirdsvie.blogspot.com.
